Tuition Fee Scholarship conditions, Duration, and Scope

ARTICLE 6 -

a) Prospective students of doctorate and thesis graduate degree programs intending to benefit from tuition fee scholarships apply to the Directorates of the relevant Graduate Schools, or the International Center Directorate, with a petition. The relevant Graduate School Directorate or International Center Directorate submits these applications to the Scholarship Commission. After the relevant examination, the scholarship commission unanimously determines the names of the students to be awarded scholarships, as well as the scholarship, and submits their reasoned decision and recommendation on the issue to the Chairperson of the Board of Trustees. With the approval of the Board of Trustees, certain tuition fee exemptions are granted to these students. The number of students receiving tuition fee scholarships and the scholarship rates to be made available are limited to the quota and rates determined by the Board of Trustees each year.

b) As for the evaluation of tuition fee scholarship applications, the level of success of candidate students in the academic programs that they have completed, their references, as well as their ALES scores, and foreign language skills in English-medium programs are taken into consideration.

c) The minimum conditions for students to be granted a tuition fee scholarship are as follows. The Scholarship Commission also takes into consideration other academic competencies of candidate students to be presented by the relevant Graduate School where necessary.

d) To be eligible for a tuition fee scholarship, students are required to exhibit these conditions:

d-1) Provided that the minimum score for admission to the program is achieved in the Academic Personnel and Postgraduate Education Entrance Exam (ALES) in the score type relevant to the program of application, the undergraduate degree graduation average grade must be at least 2.50/ 4.00, or the graduate degree graduation average grade must be at least 3.50/ 4.00,

d-2) Their Academic Personnel and Graduate Education Entrance Examination (ALES) score for the type relevant to their program is required to be at least 70 for graduate degree programs, 75 for doctorate programs when applying with a graduate degree; and 85 for doctorate programs when applying with an undergraduate degree.

d-3) Doctorate degree program students granted tuition fee scholarships and admitted to doctorate degree programs with their graduate degrees are exempt from tuition fees for 8 semesters, and those admitted to doctorate degree programs with undergraduate degrees are exempt from tuition fees for 10 semesters; while tuition fee scholarship students in thesis graduate degree programs are exempt from tuition fees for 4 semesters, without any course or success conditions; and these exemptions are subject to the scholarship rates granted to these students. Situations such as those where students are on academic leave, in their scientific preparation period, and those involve matters such as the failure to renew registrations, absence, etc. are included in this period. Students who complete the program before the deadline are required to pay the full program fee.

f) Students who were previously in graduate and doctorate degree programs at Atılım University, or another university and are re-registering for graduate and doctorate degree programs may benefit from scholarships limited to their remaining period of study, taking into account the semester to which they are assigned.

g) Students who are unable to complete the program at the end of their scholarship period may continue the program by paying the extension fee determined by the university.

h) Students who are studying at the foreign language preparatory school of the university may not benefit from the scholarship.

Academic Personnel Scholarship Conditions, Duration, and Scope

ARTICLE 7 -

a) Students who are employed as lecturers or research assistants at the University and are also registered in a graduate degree program at the University are exempted from paying all tuition fees and receive education as is the case with 100% scholarship students. If students in this situation are unable to graduate at the end of the scholarship period specified in clause e) above, they will be required to pay 25% of the semester fee they are obliged to pay for the first academic year after the end of their scholarship period, and 50% for their second academic year. Students who fail to graduate at the end of these periods lose their scholarships. Situations such as those where students are on academic leave, in their scientific preparation period, and those involve matters such as the failure to renew registrations, absence, etc. are included in this period. Students who complete the program before the deadline are required to pay the full program fee.
